WEEKLY NEWS

HOS NEWS

Dear Parents,

Thank you to all the families who have attended our open classrooms this half term. We still have a couple of sessions next week with Boyce and Almond classes. This term, we are focusing on maths with an emphasis on how you can help your child.

Maths can sometimes feel tricky, especially since many adults, myself included, struggled with it when we were younger. These experiences can sometimes shape how we view the subject as adults. However, it's important to remember that this mindset can influence our children's approach to learning maths as well. When we say things like, "I'm not good at maths," or show frustration with the subject, our children may pick up on these feelings and feel less confident about tackling maths themselves.

We believe maths can be fun! We encourage you to approach it interactively when supporting your child. Everyday activities like cooking, playing darts and cards, or even noticing numbers and patterns on the way home from school can be great ways to engage with maths.

We are here to support both you and your child in developing a more positive outlook on maths. If you have any concerns, or would like some ideas to help your child connect more with the subject, please don't hesitate to reach out. We're also in the process of updating our website to include more suggestions and helpful tips.

Thank you for your continued support.

Road Safety

A concern was raised this week regarding a pupil walking to school while using their mobile phone and not paying attention to the road. Unfortunately, this resulted in a near-miss with a vehicle.
We urge all parents to speak with their children about the importance of road safety, especially when using mobile phones near traffic. It's crucial that students stay alert and focused on their surroundings to ensure their safety.

Congratulations

Congratulations to this young man in Halls Class who has received a Blue Peter badge for his fantastic book review of 'The Enormous Crocodile' by Ronald Dahl. Joel, Abby, Shini and Henry said that they enjoyed reading Oliver's thoughts on the book and loved his artwork.
