What a lovely week it's been at school. One of the real highlights was the Year 5 and 6 trip to London, where the children had the fantastic opportunity to visit the Houses of Parliament. It was a day packed with learning, excitement and some really special moments.

We were incredibly lucky to arrive just in time to see Keir Starmer speaking in the House of Commons. The children were fascinated to see the MPs in action and to witness how debates take place in real life. We also spent time in the House of Lords, where we listened to a live debate. It was really interesting to see how the two houses work in different ways and to talk about why both are important.

The group had a good look around Westminster Hall too. Standing in such a historic space really helped the children appreciate just how long Parliament has been a part of British life. They were full of questions and very engaged.

One of the highlights was a brilliant workshop where the children learned all about how Parliament works. They found out how laws are made, what the Speaker of the House does, and why one chamber is green and the other red. The workshop leaders were so impressed with the children's knowledge and enthusiasm. It was lovely to see how much they already knew and how keen they were to learn even more.

It was a long day, with lots of walking and a late return, but the children were fantastic from start to finish. Their behaviour was excellent, and they represented the school so well. They showed real curiosity, maturity and respect, and we couldn't be prouder of them.

A huge thank you to the staff who made the day possible and to the children for making it such a success. It really means a lot when parents take the time to find staff and say thank you. Those kind words make such a difference and are always very much appreciated.

Trips like this are such an important part of learning, and it's wonderful to see our pupils experiencing the world beyond the classroom in such a meaningful way.

Have a lovely weekend and enjoy the sunshine.
