

Report by Benjamin:

Hello, my name is Benjamin, this piece of writing is about our mocktail party. A mocktail is a basic blend of natural fruit juice and soda water.

Our party kicked off at 1:45pm and we got changed into some proper party gear! At 2:00pm we started by playing ‘sock wars.’ The rules are you have to jiffle on your bottom and try to grab people’s socks!

Secondly, at 2:15, we played ‘musical bumps’. I guess you know how to play this game so I won’t bother explaining.

Thirdly, at 2:20pm we played ‘the chocolate game.’ Let me explain the rules: if you roll a 6 on the giant dice, you have to put on some dressing up items and use a knife and fork to cut as many pieces off a bar of chocolate as you can. If someone else rolls a 6 on the dice, you take off the clothes, collect your chocolate and then it is their turn.

Fourthly, at 2:35pm, we had our mocktails and food. It was a glorious spread. We had crisps, cakes and much more. My mocktail was made of orange juice, apple juice, pineapple juice and fizzy water.

Fifthly, at 2:55 we played ‘head it-catch it.’ These are the rules: if the person throwing the ball says, ‘head it’, you catch it and if they say ‘catch it’, you head it! If you do the wrong thing you have to sit down.

At 3:10 we played ‘pass the parcel’ and I almost got the prize but I did draw with my class mate, Helen. She’s my second best friend.

Finally, at 3:24pm we got our goody bags. They were choca-block with sweets, prizes and goodies. Well, there you have it, the best party ever!

Brundall School Rules!